

Medicare Part D: Understanding the 2024 Coverage Phases*

If you are covered by Medicare, you have the opportunity to enroll in prescription drug coverage. You can join a separate Prescription Drug Plan in addition to Medicare Part A and Part B, or you can get prescription drug coverage through a Medicare Advantage Plan.

But did you know there are 4 different phases to this coverage? What's more, the amount you pay in out-of-pocket (OOP) costs changes throughout the year.

Cost Sharing for Brand-Name Prescription Medicines in 2024

	Phase 1: Deductible	Phase 2: Initial Coverage	Phase 3: Coverage Gap	Phase 4: Catastrophic Coverage
YOUR COST	You pay between $0 and $545, ¹ depending on your plan.	For each prescription, you will have a co-pay or pay a portion (co-insurance) of the cost of your medicine, depending on your plan. When your costs, plus your insurance plan's costs, reach $5,030, ¹ you will enter the Coverage Gap. ¹	For each prescription, you will typically pay about 25% of the cost of your medicine. The rest of the cost is paid by the drug maker (70%) and your plan (5%).	New for 2024 You will pay $0 for your prescription drugs for the rest of the calendar year once your costs, plus the costs paid by your drug maker, together reach $8,000. ¹
TIPS	 Your deductible resets at the beginning of each calendar year.	 The average co-pay for preferred, brand-name medicines in 2023 was about $44. ² The average co-insurance for a preferred brand-name medicine was 17%, and for a specialty medicine, 25%. ²	 The number and cost of medicines you take may affect how quickly you enter the Coverage Gap.	 Check your Explanation of Benefits each month to know when you will move from one phase of coverage to the next.

*The information presented here does not apply to those participating in the Part D Low Income Subsidy ("Extra Help") program. The Extra Help program is being expanded in 2024 to offer the full subsidy to people with income below 150% of the federal poverty level who also meet the resource limitations and other eligibility requirements.
